PREFACE

6TH ASIA-PACIFIC REGIONAL CONFERENCE ON SERVICE-LEARNING 2017

It is a privilege for Petra Christian University (PCU) to host the 6th Asia-Pacific Regional Conference on Service-Learning (APRCSL) in Surabaya, Indonesia on 28 May – 2 June 2017. The significance of Service-Learning (S-L) in education has been an essential element of pedagogy. Previous conferences have highlighted insightful perspectives towards the implementation of S-L in the academic context. Yet, the field of S-L still has a lot of pedagogic aspects to explore, one of which is how students can make full use of S-L in developing qualities such as living a meaningful life by loving and serving others. We believe that it can only be achieved by educating the heart. As Aristotle once said, “Educating the mind without educating the heart is no education at all.” With this idea in mind, we chose the theme of this conference as “Educating the Heart: Nurturing a Fruitful Life through Service-Learning.” Without educating the heart, it would be an arduous task to impart the knowledge that fruitful and meaningful life means loving and serving others. The theme is really giving insights on the evaluation of the impacts of S-L to students, to faculty, and the community partners being served besides exploring new ideas and obtaining valuable experiences on Service-Learning.

There are more than 200 participants coming from more than 30 institutions. All of them hail from 16 countries including South Korea, Japan, Singapore, Philippines, Thailand, Hong Kong, Taiwan, India, Australia, The United Kingdom, United States of America, and Indonesia. We believe that the diverse backgrounds of the presenters in this conference could enlarge our horizon on the various aspects of Service-Learning in the academic context, and inspire us to think new in implementing these aspects in our institutions.

The 6th APRCSL initiates the publication of the presenters' full paper in SHS Web of Conferences Proceedings. Among these presented papers, we have selected 30 papers for a publication after being peer-reviewed. These selected papers have reflected five sub-themes of parallel sessions of 6th APRCSL 2017, i.e. engaging for change, changing for engagement; building the world we dream about: innovative pedagogy in the field; designing public interest: bridging teaching, scholarship and research for service – learning; navigating and negotiating service-learning world: deeper collaboration and cooperation for better outcomes; and other topics related to the conference theme.

Significant time and effort is required to organize a conference and publish a proceeding volume. We wish to extend our gratitude and appreciation to all authors for their cooperation and contributions, keynote speakers, session chairs, manuscript reviewers, and conference attendees for their enthusiastic participation and contributions. Financial support from United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia, International Association for Research on Service-Learning and Community Engagement, and Nippon Paint is gratefully acknowledged.

It is our earnest hope that this volume will serve as a valuable resource for service-learning teachers, students, researchers, community partners, administrators, and educational policy makers to critically evaluate and illuminate the impacts of service-learning and community engagement on students, faculty, and community partners and, most importantly, on the social, cultural, and economic issues they seek to transform.
