Globalization and its socio-economic consequences is an international scientific conference, thematically focused on the process of globalization and its impact on the economic, social and cultural life of human society. Its main aim is the cooperation with domestic and foreign educational and scientific-research institutions to present and transfer the newest knowledge in the relevant field. The conference has gained an excellent renown and that is the reason why outstanding Slovak and foreign experts in their fields take part in it.

The requirement of publishing the paper is its originality, its contribution to the theory, presentation of empirical knowledge or model solutions of the given issue both at home and abroad. The 19th volume of the conference focuses on “Sustainability in the Global-Knowledge Economy” and addresses following fundamental issues:

1. Behavioural Economics and Finance
2. Innovation and Investment in Industry 4.0
3. Collaborative Economics and Digital Platforms
4. Corporate Social Responsibility and Sustainable Strategies
5. Regions and Economic Resilience
6. Economic Sustainability in Emerging Markets
